NUMBER 50

BACK HOME — Captain Terry Glover, Ozark, Alabama, is greeted by his wife at Cairns Army Airfield, Fort Rucker, upon his return from Vietnam after being wounded in action on June 10. Captain Glover suffered a severe arm wound during an automobile assault by the 162nd Aviation Company. The first wounded man from Vietnam to be returned to Fort Rucker for medical treatment, he was placed on convalescent leave after being examined by doctors at the post hospital. (U.S. Army Photo)

Council Meeting Held Here Friday Night

The Elba City Council held its first meeting of the month, Friday night, July 1st, with all councilmen present.

The first order of business was a report from City School Superintendent Elmer Taylor, who explained where the money collected by the city and turned over to the schools is used. Taylor stated that the city system now employs sixty-three teachers and outlined the progress being made in the efforts to supply the students with an adequate education.

Also present at the meeting was Jake Lubert Morrow, who was representing the Elba Beautification Committee. Morrow revealed that the committee of civic minded citizens is working to clean up the streets and lawns of Elba. Following his explanation

Andrews Works To Strengthen Policy

In an effort to strengthen Alabama student's understanding of international affairs, Congressman George Andrews (D-Ala.) is coordinating a new plan with the State Department of Education that would do just that.

Congressman Andrews responded favorably to the Department's request for assistance by saying, "For too long our foreign policy has consisted of give-away programs and stop-gap measures. In the future we must look to a realistic foreign policy, and the only effective way to do this is to take the issue to the grassroots level. The public needs to know what is going on in our international policy; helping high school students learn what is happening in this area of study is a step in the right direction."

The Third District Congressman is well known for advocating a cool-headed approach to the nation's foreign policy. As a past Member of the Foreign Aid Subcommittee of House Appropriations, Congress-

Legion To Meet Tonight

The Culver Post 42 of The American Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary will hold its regular meeting Thursday night (tonight) in the Legion hut. A highlight of the meeting will be the installation of new officers. A covered dish supper will be served.

The Scouts are getting a chance to put into practice what they learned at their meetings during the year. They are learning to work together, play together and live together, according to officials.

Two Local Students On AU Dean's List

Local students were among 750 placed on the University of Alabama Dean's List of academically outstanding students for the second semester, 1965-66.

To be named for this honor a student must maintain a 2.5 or better academic average. A three point is A and two point is B.

Elba students on the list include Samuel F. Carnley and Mary Ann Turner, both in the School of Arts and Sciences.

Three contracts totaling almost $5 million have been awarded for flight training and security activities at the Army Aviation Center.

Two of the awards, totaling $4,226,430, are extensions of flight training contracts held by Ross Aviation, Inc., of Tulsa, Oklahoma. The firm will receive $2,799,167 for conducting the first phase of tactical instrument training given rotary wing student aviators, and $1,427,263 for instructing fixed wing student aviators.

The third award amounting to $667,966, was a renewal of the pact held by Metropolitan Security Services, Inc., Baltimore, Maryland, for guard services.

All three of the contracts are for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Dorsey Employees' Meal Was Climax Of This Mammoth Cook-Out

THE CLIPPER SHUTTERBUG was escorted to the scene of this activity Friday by Mr. J. O. Bailey under the pretense that "I need to go up anyway" and two of these pictures show why! But rest assured, he had help with the sampling.

SCENE 1 — These Dorsey workers are separating the cooked chicken from the bone in preparation for the annual 4th of July employee barbecue.

SCENE 2 shows Babe McCollough feeding the appointed (?) food sampler, J. O. Bailey, some of the 170 pounds of freshly cooked rice.

SCENE 3 shows the official "choppers" as they chop the barbecued meat into small pieces and mix the seasoning into it. This was heaped onto the plate of each employee as he or she went through the assembly line in the plant Friday afternoon. In addition to the rice and meat, the plates contained bread and pound cake and soft drinks were served.

SCENE 4 shows the "sampler", Mr. Bailey, at it again while the others are separating the barbecued pork from the bones shortly after lunch Friday afternoon.

Local Gardener Shows Off Product Of His Labors

Mr. Lawson Spurlin, who lives on Guyton Street in New Town, is quite proud of his garden products this year. He has had a garden almost every year since 1919, and this picture attests to his unique ability for success.

The three Irish potatoes weigh over a pound each, the tomato in the center weighs one pound six ounces, and both seem dwarfed by the yard-long beans and giant butter beans. The huge flowers on the table are Japanese sunflowers.

After the land has been broken, Mr. Spurlin does all the planting and cultivating with a push plow and a hoe. He uses only a moderate amount of fertilizer, but he saves all the leaves and other mulch material from the year to put around the garden plants.

Another proud visitor to the Clipper office this week was Mr. Bill DeVaughan, who usually gins the first bale of cotton in Elba, but this year he has turned to watermelons. He brought a large specimen as proof of his success.

Mr. DeVaughan planted twenty-two acres of watermelons and sold them in the field last week for over $2200, without even having to gather them himself.

Both Mr. Spurlin and Mr. DeVaughan left their superb products with the Clipper for sampling, and both rivaled the tastiness of the garden products furnished to the staff by Mr. R. L. Farris last summer.

LAST WEEK WAS my lucky week. Bill DeVaughn, of near Elba, brought us a 50-pound watermelon which was really delicious and the first I have had this season. Mr. DeVaughn has been the first farmer to take a bale of cotton to gin in this entire area for several years, but this year he says he did not plant cotton. But he must be the champion watermelon grower since that is the first and only real large melon I have seen this season.

LAST WEEK WAS really my lucky week. Dorsey Trailers entertain their employees each year at a big barbecue and picnic. I was sent a plate filled with the delicious barbecue. I was delighted that I had a special invitation to eat with the party but since I could not I was real happy that they remembered to send me a plate to Florida containing some of all the different foods served. Hundreds of pounds of the barbecue was cooked and The Elba Clipper is carrying pictures of the event.

I appreciate being remembered after I could not be present. Mack and Fern were lucky enough to attend and enjoy it along with the group. BET YOU CAN'T beat this one! Do you know of a person who married both his father and his father-in-law? The Reverend Fred L. White, pastor of the Florida First Baptist Church has had this unusual experience of performing the ceremony of both his "fathers." July 4, Reverend White went to Brewton, Alabama, and performed the ceremony uniting his father, Walter H. White, of Brewton, to Mrs. Emma Carter, of River Falls, four years ago, this popular Baptist minister also officiated at the wedding of his wife's father-in-law had lost their first wives by death. I wonder if this is a record.

Message From The FBI

By J. Edgar Hoover, Director

Independence Day is a glorious and meaningful holiday, it commemorates the birth of a new Nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the belief that all men are created equal. It commemorates the courageous stand of American patriots for the principle that freedom under God is man's destiny. And it reminds us that there is still virtue in recognizing and supporting the ideals of our great heritage.

In the past 100 years, patriotism has been a sustaining power for America in her darkest hours. It has been a dominant force in our Nation's survival and in the preservation of the self-evident truths which were so dear to our Founding Fathers. However, some people today think of an open show of patriotic emotion as old-fashioned. Patriotic symbols and teachings are scorned and neglected. In a Nation founded on an unflinching faith in God and made great by a rich reservoir of spiritual inheritance, it is shocking to now hear the words "dead" and that patriotism is unnecessary. Is this the vision seen by our forefathers who, "with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, mutually pledged their lives, fortunes, and sacred honor to the establishment of independence?" I think not.

Love of country is a matter of the heart. It is a deep appreciation of the unalienable rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. It is a sincere belief in our way of life and a determination to preserve it. Patriotism also is an open declaration of faith and confidence in our country, why should we be ashamed to say so?

In much of the world today, young people are being indoctrinated with a false dogma which imprisons the mind and souls of men. Communists and their followers are strong and dedicated. Their goal is to enslave the world. If young Americans, our future leaders, are to resist and turn back this international conspiracy, they must know what they stand for. They need to be well versed in and have full knowledge of our traditions of freedom. All prices are f.o.b. at the nurseries.

Miss Kennett, Mr. Brunson Are Wed

The First Baptist Church of Elba was the setting June 30 for the marriage of Miss Debra Kay Kennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Kennett, of Elba, to Winston Brunson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Brunson, Sr., also of Elba.

The vows were exchanged at seven in the evening with Pastor Charles Graham officiating. A double ring ceremony was used. Nuptial music was presented by Miss Pam Vaughan, organist and Mrs. Joe Summers, vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length dress of Peau de soie. The fitted bodice was made with a round neck with a scoop in back and front. The skirt had an apron effect in front which was edged with Chantilly lace. From a wide bow in the back, the skirt extended into a long train. ## University Reports We Are Getting Rich Faster

Alabama is outstripping the nation in the speed with which her per capita personal income is rising, according to the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Alabama.

While Alabamians are like the rest of the country's population in enjoying unprecedented prosperity, the state's rate of gain was nearly two per cent higher than the national rate of gain from 1963 to 1964, and continued at a rate one per cent above the national gain in 1965.

In 1965, Alabama's per capita income rose 7.4 per cent of the national figure for the first time. The actual figure in Alabama was $1,910 in 1965.

The Southeast was one of three regions in the U. S. in which per capita personal income rose faster than the national rate. The other two regions were the Far West and the Great Lakes regions. The figures for 1965 show that the rate of increase in Alabama was 7.4 per cent, while the national average was 6.4 per cent.

In Coffee County the population change for the most recent reporting period—1960 to 1964 was plus 3.4 per cent while the per capita income for the same period was plus 9.46 per cent; and in Crenshaw County the population change was minus 4.82 per cent while the per capita income was plus 24.68 per cent.

Professor Henry B. Moore, director of the Bureau of Business Research, attributes Alabama's rapid rise in per capita personal income to some continuing outmigration of population with a resulting higher employment level among those who remain. A more important factor, however, is the high rate of increase in Alabama which leads to higher levels of compensation, according to Moore.

"It is a healthy economic sign," he said, "that in 1964, the latest year for which figures are available, the state's per capita income rose 7.4 per cent, while the national average was 6.4 per cent."

Dale County showed the highest percentage jump in per capita income from 1963 to 1964, an increase of 21.8 per cent, possibly reflecting increased activity at the U.S. Army Aviation School at Fort Rucker.

Elba County's per capita income rose 11.8 per cent, while the national average was 6.4 per cent.

CHANGE OF PACE - The ladies usually "make up" with something a little less drastic than that which Annelia Sasser, of Elba, Alabama, is having foisted on her, but anything goes when props from the musical production, "Annie Get Your Gun", are handy. "Annie" is scheduled July 5-9 at USM under the direction of School of Fine Arts.

Bank/SBA Loan Enables Lester To Get New Hospital

"We're going to get a new hospital". With these words, Mrs. Vona Skeets, Route 1, Anderson, was telling the other patients as she rolled her wheelchair from room to room. Small and frail looking, her hair was snow white. Deep wrinkles lined her face with a touch of Grecian beauty. Excitement and enthusiasm were in Mrs. Skeet's voice as she told of the new 22-bed hospital that would come to Lester, Alabama. Lester is a hamlet in Northwest Limestone County.

One of the hardest blows to fall upon the people of Lester, came from the State Health Department that the clinic or hospital, as it is called by the people of Lester, would be closed. It's a long distance to Lawrenceburg or Pulaski, Tennessee, or to Athens, Alabama, especially in the middle of the night when a baby is about to be born, or someone has suffered a heart attack. Yes, this was the dark fate that seemed to fall upon the people of Lester.

The breaking of this picture for the people of Lester was when the Farmers' Bank, Anderson, Alabama, in cooperation with the Small Business Administration, approved a loan of $200,000 to Dr. David Eldridge Jackson, owner of the Jackson Hospital in Lester.

This loan will enable Dr. Jackson to erect a new hospital with out-patient department and complete facilities for two doctors. The hospital will be equipped with an X-ray and fluoroscopic machine, an electrocardiograph and other diagnostic equipment. It will have in addition to the operating room, labor and delivery room and all necessary emergency equipment. Complete nursing facilities will be provided, including a special isolation room and special rooms for care of heart patients.

Dr. Jackson has operated a hospital in Lester for 25 years. This hospital was the dream of a medical student to come back to the farm land where he was born and establish a reality in July 1940. Even though the present hospital will not compare with the new one to be built, last year 331 patients were treated in the out-patient department and 607 were treated in the hospital. With the up-to-date facilities provided by this loan, Doctor Jackson will be better able to serve the people of the community.

The Bank/SBA loan was made under the Small Business Administration's loan guaranty plan. Under this plan the bank makes the loan and the Small Business Administration guarantees a portion of the loan.

In announcing the loan, Paul R. Brunson, Regional Director of the Small Business Administration for the State of Alabama, said that there are other communities in the State of Alabama, like Lester, that are in need of medical facilities, such as doctors' and dentists' clinics. If these communities are interested in knowing more about the programs of the Small Business Administration, interested citizens should contact the Birmingham Regional Office, located at 908 South 20th Street, Birmingham.

Since the approval of this loan to Dr. Jackson, the citizens of the Lester community are interested in financing. They are interested in bringing industries into their community to provide jobs for their Averaging all corporations in the United States - after rent, raw materials, selling, accounting, interest and all other costs are paid - labor gets about 90 per cent of what is left, and owners about 10 per cent. If we were to eliminate all the workers who would get only about one extra dollar for each nine they now receive. But that would bring the business to an end, as no one would put his savings into it, and the necessary capital would not be available.

Under our form of free enterprise capitalism, the owner says to the workers: "Let's go into business together. I will furnish all the money needed to bring new materials from anywhere in the world, engineers to design a product, salesmen to sell it, accountants to keep our records, and attorneys to protect and defend us. I will erect the necessary buildings and install machinery to carry on the operation, and I will pay you 90 per cent of what we have left after all operating expenses are paid. I will retain for myself only 10 per cent. Moreover, I will pay you each week while I may have to wait years for my 10 per cent and run the risk of not getting it at all. Moreover, I will run the risk of losing my capital in part or in full."

Almost any worker would consider that a fair proposition. Nine-tenths of the earnings would go to the workers. That's the way it is in some companies. What worker would prefer to bring $20 thousand of saved capital with him to his job, and then receive $10 thousand of receiving $0 for the same work without having to invest any capital? If this fact were known, there would be a much greater degree of cooperation between labor and owners.

people at home. This can be accomplished under the Small Business Administration's Local Development Company program.

Under this program SBA will put up $8 for every $2 put up by a Local Development Company formed by a broad-based group of interested citizens. Have you ever wondered why some of your home canned foods spoiled? There are only two causes for food spoilage: (1) a poor seal on the jar or (2) not processing the food long enough. Therefore, I would like to remind you to check your jars to see that they do not have any small nick around the top. You might not be able to see the nick, so take your finger and go around the top of the jar to feel for any nicks. It is always best to leave the band on the jar because this protects the lid during storage.

Canned vegetables should always be processed in a pressure cooker. Of course, the time for processing will vary with the different kinds of vegetables, so be sure to check a reliable source for the correct pounds of pressure. You may or may not have had your pressure cooker gauge pressured recently. A gauge which pounds, may mean the difference not accurate, even if it is off just one or two food that would not spoil.

Gorgas Home

If what many authorities say about what makes a mansion a heritage home is true, Gorgas Home in Tuscaloosa is completely ready for your worthwhile visit.

Gorgas ranks high in the ingredients: age (at least 100 years old), maintenance, famous occupants, impressive furnishings, convenient location and many imitations.

Built in 1829, this home is old enough to be mature and maintained to perfection. Gorgas was the first permanent home built on the University of Alabama campus and the only building at the Capstone to survive the Union Army plunderings of 1865.

Two generations, one of them the "Conqueror of Yellow Fever," made this house their home. General Josiah Gorgas was chief of ordnance for the Confederate Army. His sword and many other War Between the States weapons are shown in the home's Museum Room.

General William Crawford Gorgas, one of the most illustrious men in Alabama's Hall of Fame, came along a couple of generations later. General Gorgas was a well-known doctor even before he made medical history in Cuba and Panama. When malaria and yellow fever struck thousands of men trying to build the canal, Gorgas went to work. He wiped-

229 Enroll For Summer Classes At ESJC

Enterprise State Junior College has reported the enrollment of 229 students for the summer quarter now in progress.

President B. A. Forrester noted that the summer school figure was almost as high as the average for the regular school year. He said he was particularly gratified by response to the new evening program for adults. Seventy students are taking evening courses.

"Instructors tell me the evening classes are the most stimulating they have," Forrester said. "People who work all day and then come to college at night are really interested in the subject."

Of the total enrollment, the president reported, 123 are new students attending college for the first time. Most popular subjects are English and history, in that order.

Gorgas is a "low country raised cottage" made of imported bricks with massive white columns on the front. The style of this 137-year-old mansion is still widely imitated today. When motoring to the mansion, drive to Tuscaloosa and then to the center of the University Campus.

DOVE STUDY

A mourning dove study, now in progress in Alabama as well as the rest of the Southeast, is expected to determine the effects of U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service regulations on the dove population. Charles D. Kelley, Chief of the Game and Fish Division in the Alabama Department of Conservation, said the study will require four years to complete. He said the time and effort spent on the project will be most worthwhile to both sportsmen and game biologists.

James E. Keeler, game biologist in the Division of Game and Fish, said, "It is apparent that the mourning dove is now the nation's number one migratory game bird, both in terms of the number of birds harvested and the number of hunters in the field."

Under survey plans, a progress report will be due on August 1 of each year of the study and the final report will be due on January 1, one year after the last hunting season in which data are gathered.

This dove study could bring about major changes in bag limits as well as other hunting regulations.

Lockjaw Is Still A Threat To Everyone

A small cut or scratch can halt a full-blown case of the disorder, and about 60 per cent of those who contract tetanus die.

Health officials at the Auburn University Extension Service warn that tetanus is still a threat to everyone. They report that the infectious disease--some people call it "lockjaw"--can enter your body through the slightest cut, thorn prick or insect bite.

The specialists emphasize that the spores or seeds which transmit the disease are found in almost every cultivated soil in the United States. No antibiotic can halt a full-blown case of the disorder, and about 60 per cent of those who contract tetanus die.

When you haven't been immunized, and the cut is not washed properly, the tetanus spores hatch into tiny microscopic bacteria. As these begin to multiply, they release a deadly poison which attacks nerve centers, causing convulsions and muscle spasms. Sometimes these attacks are so severe that vertebrae are fractured, the specialists relate. An attack of tetanus can be compared to a clenched fist in that it causes a tightening of every muscle in the body. Before long, the taut muscles, and even the heart muscles, weaken.

The main symptom of tetanus is a paralysis of the neck and head muscles, which gives the disease its "lockjaw" name. Health specialists stress keeping wounds clean to keep spores out, but the real preventive for tetanus is vaccination. A simple shot makes the chances for "lockjaw" very slight.

Because tetanus shows wear off over a period of years, the best advice for everyone is to be vaccinated before summer fun begins.

After leaving Elba, Collins stopped in New Brockton for a few minutes and then went on to Enterprise where he was honored with a coffee by the Coffee County Republican Committee.
